Energizing
fashion

TRIPHASE™

Magnetize. Energize. Accessorize.

Nikken defines energizing fashion with our unique TriPhase™ Technology, an innovation that combines magnetic technology, far-infrared energy and negative ions. Each eye-catching bracelet contains 15 inserts that include

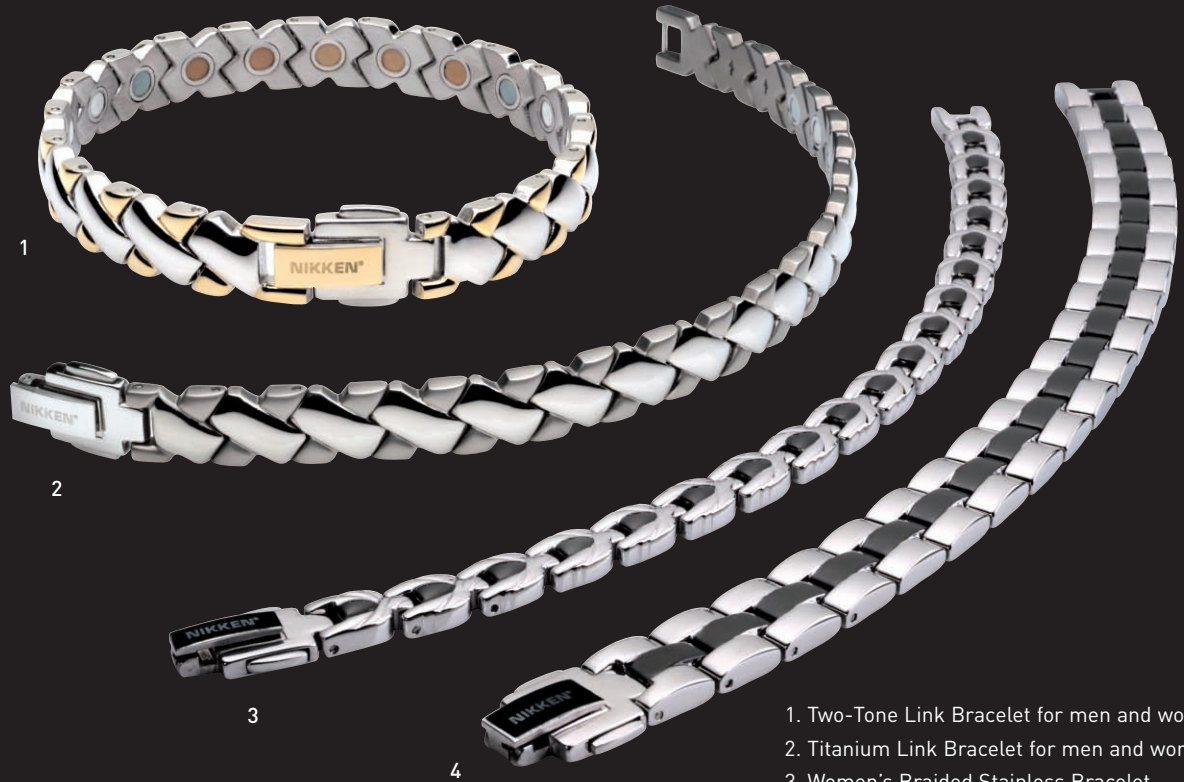

- 1,500-gauss magnets, in north/south alternating positions
- Material that imparts 800-1,000 negative ions per cubic centimeter
- Ceramics that produce far-infrared rays in the 4- to 14-micron range

Human beings have lived within the earth's magnetic field for almost all of history — until modern civilization created devices that interfere with this natural force. Nikken technology uses a spaced array of magnets to replicate the environment's magnetic flow.

The negative-ion technology in each TriPhase bracelet uses natural minerals that release these ions. High levels of negative ions are present in natural settings such as forests or near waterfalls, which provide a tranquil, relaxing feeling.

Special ceramic materials in every bracelet absorb energy from any source — even the body's own heat — and transform it into far-infrared wavelengths. This produces a very gentle warming effect that can aid sore muscles and tendons.
